

METHOD AND APPARATUS FOR RECORDING ENCRYPTED DIGITAL DATA

Abstract

A method relating to recording transmitted digital data in which transmitted digital information is encrypted by a recording encryption key. The recording encryption key is stored by a recording means on a recording support medium. Further, the recording encryption key is characterized in that an equivalent of the recording encryption key is encrypted by a recording transport key, which is also stored on the support medium with the encrypted information.

61944_1.DOC